

Service

Since Tabor College was founded in 1908, our students have been called to serve Christ and His kingdom. Thousands of Tabor graduates have been true to this calling.

To mark the 100th Anniversary of Tabor College, the circle lawn at the heart of the campus will be named Centennial Plaza and transformed into a lovely garden of engraved pavestones and flowers. At the center of Centennial Plaza, the college has commissioned a world renowned artist and former Tabor College student to create an original sculpture entitled "Called to Serve," which will be dedicated at next year's centennial celebration.

You are invited to participate in the creation of Centennial Plaza Circle by adding engraved pavers in your own name, and to honor family members, professors, and friends.

The sculpture

"Called to Serve" will be a dramatic, life-size sculpture depicting the message of Mark 10:45, "For even the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve and to give His life as a ransom for many." The plaza will be large enough for the viewer to step in, and will include a seating bench for moments of contemplation, reflection, and prayer.

The artist

Critically acclaimed artist Sandra Storm has been commissioned to create sculptures for NASA, city parks, and other public spaces across the nation and the world. From simple, earthen materials, Sandra brings forth evocative, storytelling sculptures inspiring viewers today and future generations.

Sandra is a former student of Tabor College. To see her work, visit www.sandrastorm.com.

Yes! I will add my tribute to the Centennial Plaza

Up to 3 lines of engraving are available per paver. A maximum of 15 characters are available per line (Include spaces and punctuation).

*I can't think of a more appropriate symbol for the first 100 years of
